

Ever notice how effortlessly chic Parisians look, or the casual elegance of someone who hails from the Mediterranean region? Perhaps it's something in their water that they are all drinking up that helps them to acquire an innate sense of what's fashionable and what works best for their bods. Be adventurous and borrow key looks from around the world and make it your own! You'll not only be stylish, but you will also have a unique look not easily replicated by the masses.

Want to cozy up this winter without looking like a bulky mess with a WAY too fluffy muffler? Tone down your tousled/unkept look by swathing a pretty metallic/bejeweled scarf that resembles the colorful and beautiful saris of India. This pretty bo-ho look is totally current and will keep your toasty and trendy. If you are still digging' the Indian vibe? Toss on an arm-full of bangles as well and you'll be borrowing some major banga!

Addicted to the avante-garde elegance of the Europeans? You can steal some of their key looks as well. While the Parisians like to wear black it's typically far-from-basic. Their black separates are nipped in all the right places-tailoring of jackets, pants, etc. is impeccable and detailed trims are of utmost importance making the "BASIC" black more unique by edging with lace or ruffles. Fitted jackets finish off the look (sometimes in a great color or funky pattern) and stave off the cool Paris winds keeping everyone looking fashionably hot.

Want to get in on what's funky across the pond in good ole England? London is the place where the whacky punk movement got its start and where many ULTRA-conservatives dwell. You can meld both together and look terrific. Don a great pair of plaid trousers (skinny or wide-leg) and a white blouse and finish the look with a black leather jacket or a boy-style fitted blazer, studded belt, and bag for a perfectly melded look. If you're really into the men-swear inspired looks you can bring your whole look together with an ultra-conservative tie.

If you gentleman want to look a bit more Euro yourselves, or you're just looking to make your style a bit more edgy, you too can take a hint from the foreign sect. One of the biggest differences between European menswear versus US menswear is the cut. So, those of you out there who are interested in a acquiring a more international sense of style will want to buff up before shimmying into one of the leaner looks associated with say Italian suiting for instance. If you want to look like you just drove the amalfi coast a sleek suit will get you places. A slim fitting pair of pants, paired with a muted green, orange, or blue hued shirt (not buttoned all the way up), and driving-moccasins. Finish with a fitted jacket in a similar shade.

Skinny legged pants not your thing? Let's move to a cooler climate like Great Britain where you can cozy up in wide-whale corduroy pants, blue and white striped shirts, wide ties, sweater vests, and sport coats. The finishing touch is typically a straight-laced loafer but for a more fun look you could finish with some tennis shoes (or trainers as they call them over there)! You'll be cuddled up for the winter months and you'll look fantastic!
